"ROASTING"

Is Not the First and Most Important Obligation of a Newspaper.

The Frankfort News has evidently "been there," judging from the following editorial, which voices the sentiment of the newspapers generally and which is applicable to some people who want to see everybody "roasted," but don't want to be known in the "roast." The News says:

MAKING A NEWSPAPER GOAL.

The editor of this paper is continually urged to roast this, that or the other thing or condition in Frankfort and if we pleased every body the paper would be nothing but one large broiling pan in which to cook anything and everything. Those who ask us to write a roast always refuse to allow themselves to be quoted and their conversation usually is about like this:

"I wish you would go after—"

Of course, I cannot afford to say anything myself, for I would get in bad with somebody, but I wish you would go after them strong."

In other words the person making the request for a roast is not willing to bear the brunt himself or herself, but would like to have the newspaper take the responsibility and get the cussing which would inevitably follow.

People seem to think that a newspaper is a regulator of all things and that the sole purpose and province of a newspaper is to roast. They overlook the fact that criticism by a newspaper is more bitterly resented than criticism from any other source and if the man who wants somebody else roasted was roasted himself, in the newspapers, he would want to whip somebody.

Our idea of a newspaper is that it is a vander of news, relating the happenings of the day as they occur and commenting on such of them as seem of enough moment, with honesty and frankness, but the main and most important thing is to print the news. We think the editorial column is a feature of the newspaper only and not the most important feature. The newspaper is not a policeman and it is not the duty of the newspaper to go about cracking heads and acting as an examining court for the trial of men.

People buy a newspaper for the news that is in it and rarely buy it for the views of the editor of the paper. A live news item is worth more than the most learned editorial that can be written and the editorial column is most important when the editorial becomes news by reason of the interest that is felt in the opinion on this particular subject to the editor.

A newspaper should be independent and courageous in its editorial columns, but it should also be courageous in its news columns and it frequently requires more courage to print the news than to write an editorial.

In the news columns the facts alone should be given. They should not be distorted or colored and should be presented as nearly correctly as they can be obtained. Those who want some real facts exposed to the public exposed or roasted are willing to make the newspaper the punching which will follow the roast. They seldom are willing to share the joys of being the goat, but want the newspaper to bear the burden alone. If there is anything wrong anywhere and it can be presented in a legal and proper form this paper will print it as news, but we do not intend to try to police Frankfort and correct all the evils that exist here. Not that there are many, but there are enough to keep us busy if we undertook the job.

LETTER

From a Little Girl Who Went to West Virginia.

Mr. Editor Advocate: As I haven't seen anything in the Advocate from Scranton for some time, I will write, as my father and I are readers of the Advocate. I have just returned from a visit to West Virginia with my father, John T. Borders. He hadn't seen his sister, Mrs. Craton Miller, for eight years. We left home in our buggy, stayed first night at Elamton with J. M. Elam, the well-known merchant; second day we stayed in Lawrence county with an uncle, Wallace Borders; then we took in a big foot washing meeting and saw many relatives whom we had not seen for years, which, of course, we enjoyed very much. We left Ulysses, Ky., for Ft. Gay, W. Va., and stayed over night with our cousin, Rev. Namsam Borders, so when I got to my aunt's Armida I was worn out. Then my father took the N. & W. for Kenova, then on street car to Ashland, where he spent a while with his cousin, Dr. Wm. Deboard; then by the steamboat Greyhound he went to Portsmouth, Ohio, to see his uncles, H. Pack and family and Z. H. Moore. While he enjoyed his trip I was in Wayne county with my aunt and made the acquaintance of several ladies, of whom were Misses Flora and Naomi Mills. We spent one day in Sunday School while in W. Va. I saw the hills of Morgan, Johnson, Lawrence and Wayne counties, also the coal mines of W. Va., also the Big Sandy river and the bridge which spans it at Louisa, Ky.

Since I have come home my father and I are keeping house while my sisters, Misses Millie F., Nora E., Sota Ray, Lula E., and Mr. Roy Emzy Borders are visiting my grand-mother, Mrs. Stephen Borders, of Powell county, and uncles H. L. and Charley Borders, of Powell county, and W. H. Borders, of Montgomery county.

Mrs. Jas. L. Hale, who had a long spell of fever, is out.

Mr. G. W. Botts has typhoid, but is improving.

M. A. Welch, nominee for Assessor of our county, is sick; has been to the hospital at Salt Lick.

I will close by giving my wishes to the Advocate. I like to see one so strong against the liquor; so am I. Oh, if all little girls could say what I can! I never saw my papa intoxicated. If you don't take the first drink you'll not be drunk, I think, and the child whose mother is dead will not cry for bread.

Lumber Company Dam Blown Up.
A dynamite blast was exploded a few nights ago about midway of the dam of the Licking River Lumber Company across the river at Farmers. It is not known who set off the explosive, but in all probability some individual took advantage of the strike situation and did it on account of some personal grievance, believing that the strikers would be held responsible. The strikers are still out, but their places have been taken on the river work by non-union men. Many citizens of Farmers fear there will yet be trouble.

A large stick of dynamite was exploded in the garden of Judge S. N. Sorrell, postmaster at Farmers, which was so near his residence that the family were considerably shocked.

A BAD COMBINATION.

Married Life Without a Home Is Like An Egg Without Salt.

"Don't marry until you can have a home." That's my advice to the girl who is planning to get married and "board awhile."

"Don't stay in lodgings any longer than it takes you to hunt up a suitable house or apartment." That's my advice to the girl who has gotten married and is still "boarding awhile."

Married life without a home is like an egg without salt—only infinitely worse.

Next to the bearing and rearing of a child, the building up of a home is the strongest bond of common interest that a man and woman can have.

Lodgings, I think, are the devil's own invention for stealing away the happiness that he might otherwise be obliged to see young married people enjoy.

A young man of my acquaintance told me the other day that a girl who had been married but a few months asked him to come and see her where she was boarding, and offered as inducement the fact that her husband was seldom at home.

A wave of disgust swept over me. And then it passed and I was just sorry.

For I knew the girl with little brains and much energy, who needed, if ever a woman did, some natural interests to occupy her time.

She has strong housewifely tastes. In a home she might make herself and her husband very happy. In "furnished rooms" she will probably ruin both her life and his.

A good many of the young couples who drift into the divorce courts pleading "incompatibility of temper" would never have had time to find out they had any such jaw-breaking disturbance if they had been busy home building instead of dragging along in an unnatural existence in a boarding house.

Perhaps the initial expense of a home seems a good deal to some people.

But there is such a thing as a thing as starting in with the bare necessities.

And after all isn't the question, not so much can you afford a home, as can you afford financially and otherwise to do without one?—Both Cameron in Cincinnati Times-Star.

Solving A Problem.

In one of Boston's primary schools the other day the head master of the district presented a problem for the scholars that would require the use of fractions. He expected the answer, "I don't know."

The problem: "If I had eight potatoes, how could I divide them among nine boys?"

A bright looking youngster raised his hand.

"Well," said the master. "Mash them," promptly replied the young mathematician.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Pair of Toasts.

They were lined up in front of the wet goods counter—the old bachelor and the benedict.

"Here's to woman," said the benedict, "the morning star of our infancy, the day star of our manhood and the evening star of our old age."

"Here's to our stars," rejoined the bachelor, "and may they always be kept at a telescope distance."—Chicago News.

WAR IS OVER

BETWEEN BURLEY AND EQUITY SOCIETIES.

County Boards Will Pay Growers Within Ten Days From Receipt of Cash for Crop.

The war between the Burley Society and the American Society of Equity is over, and the two organizations will work in harmony in pooling the 1909 crop under the control of the Burley Tobacco Society, if the agreement reached at Winchester on Tuesday of last week is ratified by the State and National organizations of the Society of Equity.

According to the terms of the agreement the Burley Tobacco Society will pay the American Society of Equity $10,000 for its help in pooling the 1909 crop, to be divided equally between the National and State unions, $5,000 of this sum to be paid October 1, if the pool is a success, and $5,000 when the 1909 crop is sold, the whole amount to be chargeable to the 1909 crop.

RESULT IS A COMPROMISE.

The result is a compromise of the difference between the two organizations. While the American Society of Equity, led by Congressman Cantrill, has secured important concessions and may be regarded as having won a victory, the Burley Tobacco Society retains control of the pool and the essential features of the pooling contract as originally promulgated will remain in force.

The victory of the Equity Society is in the recognition accorded to it and the liberal compensation for its assistance in pooling the crop. As there are unions in nearly every Burley county the society will secure in addition to the $10,000 a very considerable compensation at the $1 per hoghead rate.

The Burley Tobacco Society has secured the removal of opposition to its pooling pledge, retaining control of the pool, maintaining its organization intact, and retaining also the important essential parts of the original plan.

WILL COMING TOGETHER.

The tobacco it pools under this agreement will be commingled as originally provided for and the Burley Tobacco Company will be organized with a capital equal to ten per cent of the gross proceeds of the 1909 crop into the pool.

The Burley Society retains general control and satisfies the demand for local county control by the provision for the prompt distribution of the money to the grower.

The executive board of the Burley Tobacco Society went into conference with C. O. Drayton, National President of the American Society of Equity, and Hon. J. Campbell Cantrill, State President of the American Society of Equity.

First—To pay $10,000 to the American Society of Equity, to be divided equally between the National Union and the State Union, and that $5,000 of this sum is to be paid in October, if the pool is a success, and $5,000 of which sum is to be charged to the 1909 crop.

Second—In all counties where there are local unions of the American Society of Equity to pay to such union one dollar for every hoghead of tobacco pooled in that county.

Third—To adopt a by-law fixing a minimum price for pricing all pooled tobacco.

Fourth—To adopt a by-law providing that all money coming into the hands of the central office at Winchester from the sale of tobacco shall be paid to the county to which it belongs within ten days after it is received.

Fourth—To adopt a by-law providing that all money coming into the hands of the central office at Winchester from the sale of tobacco shall be paid to the county to which it belongs within ten days after it is received.

WAR IS DECLARED OVER.

After the propositions were submitted Mr. Drayton and Mr. Cantrill retired to consider them and in half an hour came back slapping several members of the board on the back and shaking hands all the way around it was joyously announced that "the war is over."

A member of the Burley Committee then said to Mr. Drayton, "We will expect you to put this through at Indianapolis," and he said, "I shall recommend it to the National Union and do all I can to have it put through."

Mr. Cantrill stated to members of the Burley Tobacco Society committee that if the American Society of Equity did not accept the propositions he would withdraw from the society and throw his influence with the Burley Tobacco Society.

Body Sent Home.

The body of Jesse Congleton, the young man who was killed by the mule he was riding last Tuesday on the farm of J. T. Lindsay, near Winchester, was sent to his home at Rothwell, Ky., Wednesday morning. The facts in the case, it developed, were that the mule became frightened and ran away throwing Mr. Congleton off and entangling him in the harness.

In this way he was dragged a long distance to the barn. He had a bank book in his pocket showing he had money in a Mt. Sterling bank and receipts in his pocket showing that he was a Mason and an Odd Fellow.

WELL DESERVED

The Praise That Comes From Thankful Mt. Sterling People.

One kidney remedy never fails. Mt. Sterling people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mt. Sterling testimony proves it always reliable.

Mrs. Mary Hinson, 21 Strother St., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I believe that if I had not used Doan's Kidney Pills I would not be living today. My health was very poor and two of our best physicians stated that I had diabetes and could not expect to recover. They gave me a year to prepare for my sad fate. The kidney secretions were very natural, contained a heavy sediment and at times my body became bloated. I was nervous and suffered severely from headaches and dizzy spells, during which spots floated before my eyes and I had to grasp something for support. My back was also very weak and I could not stoop to button my shoes, in fact, could hardly get around. I was so much impressed by a testimonial given in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills that I decided to try them and procured a box at Duerson's drug store. They gave me immediate relief and I continued taking them until I was in good health. I have but little trouble with my kidneys now and for that reason recommend Doan's Kidney Pills highly."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WILL TELL.

The editor of the Focus in Louisville, on Saturday said in his paper that pool rooms are open in defiance of law. He was on Monday cited to appear before the Board of Public Safety to tell what he knows. He will inform them. Then they will have a chance to act.

THE LEXINGTON DECISION.

The decision of Judge Parker, at Lexington, setting aside the election of 1907 because of fraud and violence, completes the circle that establishes permanently the right of the people in every community, free from intimidation, violence, threats and corruption, to select their own officers in accordance with the laws of the State.

It will do for Lexington, we hope, what the decision of the Court of Appeals did for the city of Louisville. Here Government was restored to the people, and at once the people took new interest in public affairs, manifestly a political activity that is at last the source of strength in all free governments. A new spirit prevades our public service. A new spirit controls and directs the councils of the Republican party. A new spirit is struggling for recognition within the Democratic organization. In the course of time we will have two parties both recognizing the supremacy of the popular will, both obedient to the law, both calling to the public service the best type of citizenship.—Louisville Evening Post.

Assault With Deadly Weapon.

Late on Friday afternoon on Mayville street near the hotel B. C. Wren attempted to shoot C. T. Wilson, County Jailor. Officers standing near grabbed the pistol or knocked it down and it was discharged without hitting Wilson or anyone.

The case was called in Police Court on Monday. The charges were: Assault with a deadly weapon and carrying same. The trial was postponed until next Saturday. We know nothing of the cause, only the report that when Mr. Wren's barn was burned he telephoned for the bloodhounds, the hounds were not taken.

Another Fool-ed.

Mrs. Ralph Taylor, of Winchester, a bride of two months, was deserted by her husband, a barber, who came from Herdinsburg a month ago to work at the Brown-Proctoria. He told her he was going to Lexington to buy a massage machine; next he wrote from Memphis, saying he was going to San Francisco. On Saturday her parents were expected from Hancock county. She is 23 and says her acquaintance was formed through a matrimonial advertisement.

Republicans Nominated by the Democrats.

The Democrats of Lee county after a stormy session nominated the following county ticket:

William Goocoy, County Judge; Buck McGuire, for Circuit Clerk; B. N. Lutes, for Sheriff; Elias Palmer, for Jailor; Henry Lemaster, for Assessor and G. W. Brown for Coroner.

All the nominees except Goocoy and Lemaster were defeated candidates in the late Republican primary and had bolted.

For Police Judge.

C. D. Webb, city editor of the Bourbon News, wants the Democratic nomination for the office of Judge of the Paris Police Court. Judge Webb is one of the best known Democrats in the city and in every campaign since he reached his majority has worked valiantly for his party. If elected he brings to the discharge of his duties an experience of eight years as former Judge of the Court.

Regardless of the action of the national president of the A. S. E., C. O. Drayton, in relation to the peace pact between the Burley Society and the Kentucky branch of the A. S. E., made recently at Winchester, it seems that the 1909 pool of the Burley Tobacco crop is practically assured.

City Election.

The City Election is in progress today. There is no opposition for Mayor and Councilmen, and the race is confined to Police Judge with C. W. Nesbitt and Ben Turner as the candidates.

For Sale at a Bargain.

Popcorn machine and peanut roaster, good as new; cost $250; will sell for $75 if sold at once. Call at this office.

Among those who took part were: J. T. Clark, Rev. Geo. A. Joplin, John Blount, J. T. Highland, Robt. Marshall, B. W. Trimble, W. T. Simrall, Prof. W. H. Cord and Thomas Cravens.

POOR HENRY IN NO DANGER.

Bashful Man Unduly Alarmed Over Simple Request, But Then It Was in Leap Year.

This is a belated leap-year story that happened to get overlooked in the holiday rush of 1908. But better late than never, as the Long Island conductor said when his train came in four hours behind time.

Her name was Gladys Genevieve Jones, and the name of the other party to the episode was William Henry Harrison Hankins. Gladys had attained the mature age of 29 summers, while William Henry, etc., had also reached the age of discretion, with a few years over for good measure.

William Henry and Gladys had long been friends, but today, for the first time, she had taken advantage of her leap-year privileges and invited him out for a moonlight drive. Blushingly he had accepted—for Mr. Hankins was one of these bashful swains who never get over the habit of blushing when in the presence of the opposite sex.

Gladys Genevieve believed in doing things right. She had driven the coy and diffident Hankins to the nearest village, four miles away, with all the accessories and trimmings, and now, at last, they were on their honeymoon journey. For a time they rode along, wrapped mostly in silence, and then Gladys suddenly gave a little shiver, moved closer to her companion's side, looked up inquiringly into his face, and began:

"Mr. Hankins, don't you think it would be a good plan if we were to double up?"

She was interrupted by a wild cry of alarm from Mr. Hankins. The next instant he had sprung from the sleigh and fled swiftly into the starlit night. "Now, I wonder what on earth startled the 'poor fellow' that way?" mused Gladys Genevieve, as she drove slowly homeward, alone. "I was only going to ask him if he didn't think it would be a good plan if we were to double up the lip robe on account of the air being so chilly, when he sprang out and dashed away like a madman. Must have somehow got the idea in his head that I was about to propose. Dear me! what poor, half-witted, scary creatures the men are, anyway!"—Judge.

To Err Is Human.
"I am going to tell you the truth about yourself," he said.
"Go on," said the young and ambitious actress.

"I have in my time had rare opportunities to observe beautiful, graceful and talented women, and I violate no confidence in saying that you are the queen of them all. You unite in your lovely person that peculiar magnetism which lays audiences at your feet. Your genius, shining through all the deficiencies of stagecraft, enables you to triumph over every obstacle. So supreme are you that you have the right to rise above all conventionalities, to marry, to love, to discard when you please, and no one will dare to criticize. Your work will live. You are the very personification of the highest art. Under this, your perfection of beauty gives you the just title to a lasting fame."

"Is all that true?" she asked, softly.
"Absolutely. Would you have me say more? What more could I say?"

She sighed.
"You might," she answered, "have mentioned my clothes and my figure!"—Pack.

Bonner's Famous Advertisement.
When the New York Ledger was warring on the basis of fact and fact, the proprietor, sent to the New York Herald a brief advertisement, to be set up in a single line, so Greengrass was the first to see it, writing that the advertising manager interpreted the directions as ordering that the copy be run in full page which instructions he obeyed, to his marveling greatly. The Herald came out the next morning with one whole page devoted to the crisp advertisement to read the Ledger's new device, the effect upon Mr. Bonner was almost fatal, first from chagrin at the thought of the possible bid, then from amazement as subscriptions began to pour in, and finally from satisfaction, as they continued to flood the office, until the fortune of the publication was made. The novel, though simple device had struck the public's fancy. Mr. Bonner was hailed as the pioneer of a new and daring theory of exploitation, and the advertisement gained tenfold currency by being commented upon as a feature of the news.—Collier's.

Meredith's Narrow Fame.
When the death of George Meredith was announced a group of London newspaper boys quarreled as to his identity. One held that he was an amateur champion cyclist, another maintained that he was "the boss over the biscuit firm," but they finally agreed to the argument of the third that he was the "bloke who played in the cup final at the Crystal Palace."

"Well," answered her father, "may say you're ahead of your brother Josh. It's easier to understand than a college yell."

"Well, I just wish we could teach the flies and mosquitoes to love 'em, mamma."—Yankers Statesman.

AUGUST COURT.

About 4,000 cattle on the market and a lot left in the country for want of buyers. Fully 10,000 sheep brought down for sale, but very few in town for want of lots. They were in pastures near town. To say that they were dull does not express it. Buyers looked at sheep like they were poison and were afraid to touch them. It looks like the mountain traders will be hit hard that have sheep to sell. The cattle trade was very brisk at good prices, a few lots bringing $4.65, but $4.50 was the price for feeders. Yearlings at $4.25 to $4.50; heifers at $3.25 to $4, cows $2.75 to $3.50, bulls at $3.25.

Big crowd at the pens and trade was very brisk during the entire day. A great many cattle changed hands during the day. We caught a few sales that were made before noon:

Prewitt Vanmeter, of Lexington, bought 13 900-lb. steers of Mike Wilson at $4.60; same party sold Dan Welch a bunch of 1400 lb. oxen at $4.40.

Prather & Lemaster sold 25 900-lb. steers to Thos. Fox at $4.50.

Green Allen & Son sold 29 960-lb. steers to A. L. Tipton at $4.65.

Jacob Boyd, of Bath county, bought 9 700-lb. heifers of Luther Murphy at $3.75.

J. M. Rose sold 6 900-lb. cows to V. P. Kearns, of Carlisle, at $3.25.

G. B. Belcher sold 19 900-lb. steers to John Stoffer at $4.50.

Salyers & Sweetnam sold 11 900-lb. steers to W. W. Gay, of Clark county, at $4.50.

Murphy & Hughes sold 20 530-lb. heifers to J. F. Lanter, of Clark county, at $3.50; same party sold 21 400-lb. heifers to Mat Long at $3.25.

Jas. Little sold 15 500-lb. heifers to J. T. Denton, of Fayette county, at $3.60. Mr. Denton bought 54 head in all.

O. H. Downing sold 8 800-lb. steers to Wm. Ledford, of Bourbon county, at $4.40.

W. W. Gay, of Clark county, bought 24 900-lb. steers of Mr. Evans at $4.35.

Prewitt Vanmeter, of Fayette county, bought 37 900-lb. steers of various parties at from $3.80 to $4.60.

W. E. Little, of Clark county, bought 40 700-lb. steers of Little & Hilton at $4.25.

Milt Lykins sold 20 600-lb. heifers to D. C. Shroat, of Bath county, at $3.60.

Hayden Jackson sold 8 1250-lb. oxen to Wm.ley, of Paris, at $3.60.

Murphy & Yocum sold 14 700-lb. steers to Stanley Prewitt, of Clark county, at $4.35.

Luther Murphy sold 23 500-lb. heifers to David Pence, of Bourbon county, at $3.35.

E. J. Webb sold 15 600-lb. heifers to T. S. Barnes, of Bath county, at $3.40.

J. L. Falkner sold 15 400-lb. steers to Elkin Hunt, of Clark county, at $4.00.

HORSES AND MULES.

Very few mules in town and no big heavy ones in the lot. Prices were strong. We noticed a sale of 15-2 mare mules of light weight at $325, 15-hand mules at $300, small mules at $100 to $125.

Horses a little bit dull and not much doing. No fine horses on the market.

WARRANTS FOR INSPECTORS.

Dairymen Ask the Arrest of Authorities.

On the ground that they are acting without authority of law in applying the tuberculin test to dairy cattle in and around Louisville and Jefferson county, warrants for the arrest of Dr. Frank T. Eisenman, State Veterinarian; Dr. B. W. Smock, County Health Officer; J. C. Burneson and William Grace, Federal inspectors under the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, and others were secured by Morton Yonts from a Justice of the Peace on Friday night. Mr. Yonts represented the Dairymen's Protective Association of Jefferson county.

Dr. Eisenman said: "We stand ready to go to jail every day under the circumstances of today. I am not worried over the action of the dairymen at all, for I expected them to do something of the kind. The work of testing the cattle and taking steps to purify milk and stamp out tuberculosis will go on uninterrupted."

Dr. Smock said: "The proclamation issued by the Kentucky State Board of Health with regard to the application of the tuberculin test to dairy cattle is strictly in accordance with the law, and the men who are opposing us and placing the obstacles in our way will find out that it is so before we are through with them."

Dr. Grace said that before the warrants are served upon him the county ptrolman must be accompanied by a Federal officer.

The sale of the cell occupied by Gen. Morgan, of the Confederacy, while he was a prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary, is opposed by Gov. Judson Harmon. At the last meeting of the board of managers the cell, which is soon to be torn out of the East Hall, was sold to John A. Kelly, penitentiary reporter for the Columbus Dispatch. Mr. Kelly intended sending the cell in a glass cage on a tour of the South and then having it placed permanently in Lexington, Ky., where it would be a matter for sightseers. But Gov. Harmon sent word to the prison that the cell must be kept there. Mr. Kelly told the Governor that the cell is his and exhibited his receipt for $25 paid the managers.

HAD TO BE RIGHT

EXAMPLE OF CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER'S LITERARY WORK.

Short Literary Article Prepared with Infinite Care and Frequently Revised — Author Admitted It Was Labor.

The extraordinary pains and patience with which the late Charles Dudley Warner did his literary work are shown in the strenuous way in which he produced an ordinary notice some years ago.

Prof. Edward L. Youmans was a close personal friend of Mr. Warner, and on that account when Mrs. Youmans died the editor of a daily paper asked Mr. Warner to write a sort of personal appreciation of her. This he undertook to do.

He was left alone from 11 a. m. until midnight, when he went to lunch. Returning at 2 o'clock, he worked without interruption until 5 o'clock, when he turned over to the editor what he had written.

Yet the work was not complete. Mr. Warner read the first proof and in succession three revised sheets came. Each time he made changes after change in punctuation, seeking out the one right word, while even in the story of paragraphing he seemed to make changes what he deemed to be proper. Now did the done revision end with the marking of the last proof.

After the paper had gone to press and the first sheets had been brought up to the composing room for an O. K. Mr. Warner looked carefully at the editor and observed:

"Would you object to lifting the form? I see a sentence in the last paragraph that might be somewhat changed. She was too good, you know, to have a slightly tribute paid to her."

Even the printers refused to get busy over the sheet and forthwith the form was sent up and changes went on for an hour. At last, though, the editor, but not Mr. Warner, had the supreme satisfaction of knowing that the work was as nearly perfect as human hands could make it, and the edition was sent out.

"While we were waiting at the street toward the Youmans country house," wrote the editor, "we quietly talked about books and bookmen."

"You are most painstaking," we ventured.

"Yes," said Mr. Warner, modestly. "I never could do anything right by like some writers. It has always been real labor to me."

"Then you revise all your work the same way?"

"I have always found it necessary to do so. Even in writing for the 'Daily Chat' I have to be painstaking. Nor have I ever been able to use the typewriter with any degree of satisfaction. This trouble comes in to be that either in dictating or in using the typewriter I at once become self-conscious and mechanical. For some reason, my thoughts—what few ideas I may possess—seem to flow more easily from the pen."—New American Magazine.

Rear Children Separately.

On a country estate not far from one of our large cities a family of six children is being reared in a most novel way. It is the theory of the parents that it is for the best interest of the children to bring them up in pairs, and accordingly there are three governesses under whom, two together, they study and play apart from the other children, whom they meet only once a week on Saturday afternoon, when they have a general playtime. The children are all girls, who, not knowing any other form of bringing up, do not think their own strange. One of the theories of the parents is that by this method the girls will develop greater in civility and deeper interest in one another than under the ordinary conditions of a large family.

Emerson's Religion.

There are as many Emersons as there are readers of Emerson. He has something good and something helpful for every one who dips into him. The skeptic and the man of simple faith, the philosopher and the man of the world, the soul that is strong and victorious and the soul that is bowed down with the senses of failure and trouble, all find in this remarkable man that to please, strengthen and comfort them. It is pretty hard to say just what Emerson teaches in any particular case, but he is always healthy and always inspiring. Of religion, in the old dogmatic sense, he had none—but his writings abound in cheerfulness, hope and courage. If you want to call these things religion.—New York American.

Rooster Rides a Bicycle.

Ever see a Plymouth Rock rooster ride a bicycle? Well, "Sammy" does. And in so doing he has solved the problem of a college education for Ralph Edmister.

Every day "Sammy" rides through Pasadena, Cal. streets, standing erect and uncrumpled on a small platform built behind the seat.

When Ralph stops his wheel "Sammy" alights, pecks around a few minutes in the dust, and flies back to his seat and crows a loud call for attention. He gets it. And while the curious are wondering, Master Ralph is busy telling post card owners of himself. It is through this sale that the short trousers boy expects to complete his education.

QUEER IDEA OF HOSPITALITY

Of the curious ideas of hospitality held by some of the natives of that wild country lying between Baghdad and Damascus two travelers, Capt. Butler and Capt. Arlmer, tell in the Geographical Magazine. "We found Ferid, the head of a minor ruler of Arabia, sitting in a low room, the roof of which was supported by wooden pillars. All round the sides of the room were spread carpets, on which sat the visitors and members of his court. He is a man of 22 years, with a dark, pointed beard, good, regular features, but eyes that are cold and cruel, and he has a nervous, fidgety manner, and was all the time attracting his eyes round and round and snuffing his moustache and beard and admiring himself in a small, cheap-looking glass that hung just behind him. Above his head on the wall hung his silver-mounted walking stick and a sword, the sheath of which was also covered in silver. He was very richly dressed."

"On arrival at the house placed at our disposal we congratulated our selves on our good fortune in having such a cordial welcome, but we were speedily disillusioned. We had not been there more than five minutes when Ferid's head slave, a richly dressed personage called Bahi, came to tell us that the emir would not take our camels or our money, as he had plenty of both, but that he would like things of European make and of the kind that we happened to have. This was only too true, and during our five days stay there, there was a continual procession of slaves and harem women from the castle demanding things for the emir and his visitors and favorites, and demanding things in such a way that it was impossible for us to refuse. At last we had practically nothing of any value left, having been fleeced of watches, revolvers, compasses, various clothes and other articles of our kit."

"Apart from this system of snore or less polite robbery, we were well treated by the emir and had our food sent us from the castle by him. About three or four times a day we had a royal command from him and had to go up to the castle and drink many cups of coffee and excellent sweet tea with him and talk about his country and Europe. He was always very genial and courteous and I honestly think he considered he was treating us very well in not taking all we had and turning us adrift to die in the desert."

Fish Jumps Into Boy's Lap.

The high water in the Vermilion river all this spring has made fish more numerous than for many years, according to a Centerville (R. D.) dispatch to the St. Paul Dispatch. Near by every one goes fishing here now. An amusing incident occurred here the other day while Robert Egan was fishing just below the dam. A big-mouth pickerel commenced to break the record for high jumping by trying to get above the dam.

Robert was sitting about four feet above the water on the edge of a nearly perpendicular bank, drinking, when he was ever really big enough to swallow Jonah, whose without even a scratch, when suddenly from out of the deep above a monster pickerel, landing in Robert's lap and giving the lad an uppercut on the chin with a flip of the tail, had dropped his pole and landed a right-hander on the pickerel's side, knocking him out on the bank and securing the prize.

This is no "fish story," but a true incident which was witnessed by two of our business men, noted for their truth and veracity.

Heating a Greenhouse.

The heating of a greenhouse by the sun is usually explained by the fact that glass permits the passage of light rays, but is almost impenetrable to heat rays, so that as the light falling upon the enclosed objects is converted into heat and partially reflected, the reflected rays cannot escape through the glass. Thus the heat accumulates. To test this long-established theory, Prof. W. R. Wood blackened two pasteboard boxes and covered one with a plate of salt, which readily conducts both light and heat, and the other with glass. The salt-board box became even warmer than the other, this being true also when the heat was first filtered from sunshine through glass. The conclusion is that the ground and other objects are heated by the incident rays, and that this heat is then spread by convection currents, but as the reflected air cannot mix and circulate with the outer air, it concentrates a larger amount of heat.

Rural Conversation.

"I wish I had never been born," sighed the horse as he leaned against the wall and gazed into space.

"Why?" asked the dog, stopping her chewing and pitching her ears forward.

"Because the automobile has side-tracked me. I have nothing to live for."

"Boh!" said the cow. "Look at the condensed milk they are putting out, but you don't hear any kick coming from me."

The Consistent Cynic.

"Fairy stories usually end and they lived happily ever after."

"Yes," answered Mr. Elvius Barker, "that's one of the reasons why I don't believe in fairy tales."

TO PREVENT

Quarantine of Sheep. Senator Bradley Asks Secretary Wilson to Defer Action.

Governor Wilson received from the national Department of Agriculture at Washington a telegram announcing that the quarantine against Kentucky sheep becomes effective August 16, and is to be continued until such time as State authorities have eradicated the disease known as "scabies in sheep."

Commissioner of Agriculture Rankin, Secretary of State Ben L. Bruner and W. T. Chilton, of Campbellsburg, president of the Kentucky Sheep Breeders' Association, went to Washington Thursday to intercede with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson in an effort to have him hold up the quarantine on Kentucky sheep. They will endeavor to show that the scabies which affect the Kentucky sheep is being eradicated and that a quarantine will not be necessary.

Senator Bradley and J. W. Newman, secretary of the State Fair, met at Louisville on Wednesday and after discussing the quarantine decided to take immediate steps to prevent the quarantine. Senator Bradley at Mr. Newman's instance and in co-operation with Governor Wilson, who sent a similar telegram, wired the following message to Washington:

TELEGRAM TO WILSON.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 11, 1909. Hon. James H. Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Please wait arrival of committee headed by Commissioner of Agriculture Rankin, and others of Kentucky before taking further steps quarantining Kentucky sheep. Millions of dollars are at stake here and all we ask is a reasonable time in which to make every thing agreeable. The disease has been brought here from other States. W. O. BRADLEY.

READY TO STOP DISEASE.

Mr. Newman said it would be an easy matter to stop the disease and declares that if this quarantine goes on it may not be lifted in three years. It has been found, said he, that two dippings, ten days apart, will completely eradicate this disease. The solution best suited to this purpose is a coal tar preparation, and for five cents a head the sheep can be cured. He says the first dipping kills the insect and the second destroys the eggs. He urges farmers to dip their sheep at once and thus aid in keeping off the quarantine.

When the digestion is all right, the action of the bowels regular, there is a natural craving and relish for food. When this is lacking you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They strengthen the digestive organs, improve the appetite and regulate the bowels. Sold by all dealers. 4-4t.

Bumper Yields of Grain.

Bumper yields of the leading grain crops are indicated by the Government crop report for August. The report furnishes a genuine surprise in its estimates of 492,920,000 bushels of winter wheat, whereas a month ago but few estimates were for a crop of more than 400,000,000. The indications are for a spring yield of 292,000,000. The combined crop of 785,000,000 bushels is the third largest in the history of the country, compares with 664,002,000 last year.

The report of corn shows some deterioration, the indicated yield being lowered from 3,117,572,000 bushels a month ago to 2,945,000,000.

COULD NOT AGREE

MEMBERS OF BOWLER HOUSE
HOLD IN DEEP TROUBLE.

Each Wanted an Awning of a Color That Satisfied Her Complexion, and as a Consequence They Had None.

Mr. Bowler never knew what real trouble was till he set out to buy awnings for the front windows. He found out then. Mr. Bowler has a large family. His women folks number seven. He has a wife, a sister-in-law, and five daughters. They all live with him—rather, Mr. Bowler lives with them, because they run the house.

Being blessed with such a large family, Mr. Bowler finds it necessary to occupy a large house. His house has five front windows. The first day the sun looked down with promise of summer in its beams Mr. Bowler thought himself of awnings.

"Dear me," she said, "what a funny color. What in the world possessed Henry to get light green? I don't like it, and, what is more to the point, I won't have them."

The man grunted and sat down on the awnings to await developments. Mr. Bowler called her sister and her daughter.

"Don't you think these things ugly?" she asked.

"Yes," the unanimous response, but beyond that monosyllabic party was by no means agreed. The oldest daughter held out for awnings with a light blue stripe, because that color was becoming to her complexion; another insisted upon dark blue for the same reason; a third claimed a deep red, for a fondness for sage green, and so on through the list. Each woman declared she had suffered tortures through being obliged to sit in a room shaded by awnings of an unbecoming color, and she vowed she did not intend to do it again if she could help herself.

Mr. Bowler could stand about that time was surprised by these remarks, but the man with the awnings was not surprised. He was used to them. "What a funny trouble that some of these places," he said resignedly. "Women are awfully cranky about their complexion. Some of them say blues and greens make them look ghastly, and others claim they look horrid in shades of a warmer color. So there you are. In big apartment houses where there are all styles of beauty to be suited the manager sometimes loses his sleep for a week as the women poster him so about the color of the awnings he has chosen."

Mr. Bowler looked frightened. "I wonder," he said, "if that is going to happen to me. I cannot please everybody. It would hardly be possible to have a different colored awning at each window. It would look queer from the outside, don't you know?"

Even the women admitted that it would look queer, but as neither would consent to any color except the one that suited her, the best advantage they decided to worry along without any awnings at all.

A New Telephone Invention.
The postal authorities are negotiating for the acquisition of a marvelous new microphone, the invention of two Swedish engineers named Egnor and Holmstrom. The instrument is so sensitive that it enables telephone communications to be made at twice the distance now at obtainable. Experimenting the other day, the inventors conversed from Berlin with the superintendent of telegraph at Stockholm; it was proved that the new apparatus had the same transmitting power over this distance as the one now in service has between Malmo and Stockholm.

Nervous Children.
The naturally nervous child should early be taught the value of self control. Instead of pampering and making allowances, train the boy or girl in self-repression. Discourage emotionalism and never permit giving way to fits of temper.

There is nothing so natural as the naturally nervous child's habit of throwing rich foods and eating between meals. Many so-called nervous temperaments come from over-eating.

BALLOON AS A WAR FACTOR.

Expert Points Out the Many Cases in Which Machine Would Be of Great Value.

Considering the subject from a military standpoint, the balloon is of the utmost importance. Readily developing a speed of 40 or more miles an hour, and capable of remaining in the air four or five hours, by means of a thorough reconnaissance of the strength and position of the enemy could be made by observers in a position to note the line of defense and the position of every piece of artillery. Data could thus be obtained for maps which would be of the greatest value for strategic purposes. As a means of communication between one commander and another, as a messenger for transmitting orders and instructions, the balloon would prove not merely useful but essential. Should the commander-in-chief desire to confer with some subordinate perhaps a half-day's ride by the highway, physical communication could be established in a fraction of the time possible by any other means. In such a case he might be of vital importance as a time-saver.

While this discussion may seem to be dealing with a future period, what the heavier-than-air machine has already accomplished convinces us that the prediction of its possible service is not in the least exaggerated. But the model which is lighter than air has proved that it, too, is necessary in modern military equipment—Lieut. Lahm in Putnam's.

BLOW FOR AUTOGRAPH FIEND

Invalent Collector Got What She Was After, But a Sting Was Attended.

Mrs. Humphry Ward is an English "pains" of most famous views and has a business sometimes in expressing them.

Like most famous or near-famous personages, she is beset by the autograph fiend.

At a London reception of which she lent her august presence last winter, an American woman persisted her up and down the stately drawing room, and worming her way up begged insistently for the English woman's signature.

Had she been of an observing nature she might have caught the cold and hostile gleam that shot from Mrs. Ward's eye. Silently the authoress took the book and fountain pen and laboriously penned first a sentence and then her signature in characteristic cigraphy.

Overjoyed, the innocent autograph stuffer flew back to her hostess to share her triumph, and this is what they read:

"From an ill-bred insistence of autograph collectors, Good Lord, deliver us."

Throned Overboard and Saved.

Trenton, N. J., folk are marveling at the bravery of Kent Dinglem, professor of ceramics at the Trenton Art school, in saving the life of Miss Winifred Brown. He and Miss Brown were canoeing in the racquet when the current dragged the boat rapidly toward a whirlpool where the water course has its junction with the Delaware river. Persons on shore saw Prof. Dinglem lift the girl and throw her overboard. She fell in water waist high and was helped to shore by persons who had witnessed the act. Had she remained in the boat it would have been swamped in the whirlpool. Prof. Dinglem was barely able to navigate the treacherous current, but finally got back to shore in safety.

"Dingelism" in Australia.

"Dingelism," the new word introduced into Australian parlance by devotees of antithesis to "dingelism" derived from the name of the wild dog of the antipodes—dingo. Before the arrival of the whites the Australian natives had trained the dingoes to hunt them in hunting. The dingoes soon began to attack the white men's sheep and so became an enemy to be shot at sight. Real dingoes are now very rare, except in the vast unsettled areas of the north. The dingo of the South is a small but combative animal, carrying his tail curled over his back, and ready to attack anything that comes in his way.

For Ways That Are Dark.

The man ran his eye over the casual assortment of cigars in the case at the end of the bar. He was a stranger to all of the brands.

"How's that two-for-a-quarter over in the left-hand corner?" he asked.

"That's a dandy, boss," said the colored gentleman who was officiating as bartender. "It's the kind I always smoke."

This sounded like a dubious recommendation until he added: "What you want to get the best cigar in the house just ask the bartender which cigar he smokes when the boss is out."

The First Cook Book.

One of the first cook books was written by Mrs. John Giffard of Manchester, England. It was published in 1769 under the title of "The English Housekeeper" and was so much liked that it ran through a second edition in one year. She sold her rights to a third edition for $7,000, and the book ran through 36 editions. She had been only a housekeeper on small wages, but her book experiment proving so successful, she got out Manchester's first directory in 1772.

TIRE OF LIFE WHILE YOUNG.

Increase of Suicide Among Children a Pitiful Phase of Our Modern Society.

"Scientific men are puzzled to account for the increase of suicide among children," said Dr. G. A. Austell of Boston. "A generation ago the taking of their own lives by minors was almost an unheard-of occurrence. Now it is becoming alarmingly frequent, not only in this country, but in Europe. In most cases the phenomenon can be set down to the artificial life people lead and to the complex conditions of modern existence. Very often parents are too ambitious for their children, and by constant appeals to them so work on the nervous temperaments of their offspring as to bring on a derangement of the mental faculties. One of the most noted specialists of France, Dr. Berillon, who has made a study of the matter, asserts that children who have a suicidal tendency are for the most part wanting in the sense of smell. He makes the recommendation that all who suffer from this defect should be taken to an expert for examination as it might tend to forestall some future tragedy."

EXCUSES MANY AND VARIED.

Unpungent Bachelors Give Their Reasons for Refusing to Enter the Married State.

At a wedding breakfast the bachelors were called upon to give their reasons for remaining so.

The following are among them: "I am like the frog in the fable, who, though he loved the water, would not jump into it because he could not jump out again."

"I am too selfish and honest enough to admit it."

"I prefer, on the one hand, liberty, refreshing sleep, the opera, midnight suppers, quiet seclusion, dreams, cigars, a bank account, and club to—on the other hand—disturbed rest, cold meat, baby linen, soothing sirup, rocking-horses, bread pudding, and empty pockets."

"I have a twin brother, and we have never had a secret from one another. He is married."—London Tit-Bits.

The Hearts of Sam Houston.

In the newly published "Memoirs of a Senate Page," Christian P. Eckloff recalls the years just prior to the outbreak of the civil war, when Sumner, Wade, Douglas, Hamlin, Houston, John P. Hale, Breckinridge, Toombs and Jefferson Davis were debating the great questions upon which the north and south have been at variance. They were an imposing body of men, mostly clad in black broadcloth and wearing high silk hats.

But there was one senator who refused to be dignified—Senator Houston of Texas. "Day after day," says Mr. Eckloff, "during spare moments, he sat there in his seat, carving hearts out of soft pine wood. They were pieces about the size of the heart of a pine. When he completed one of these works of art he would summon a page, and, pointing toward some fair spectator in the gallery, he would say: 'Give this to that young man.'"

Mr. Eckloff remembers Houston as one of the gentlest and kindest of men.—Boston Globe.

Would Be Water Nymphs Now.

Undine was a girl who lived on the stage, off and on, and the sheath gown really is only a form of that garb which, in other days, would not have been permitted except in a bathing gown. One Undine gown that came from Europe was of soft shimmering satin, made as close to the figure as the tailor's art could get, and covered in undulating waves with large crystal beads. With frosted leaves, or with sprig-like look like winter branches covered with hoar frost, this outfit would suit Undine if she were a polar goddess. Pale green velvet also has been adapted to a bathing gown, and with the proper arrangement of crystals it looks as if it came sparkling up from the depths of the sea.

Fateful Breach of Etiquette.

Under the third empire in France Saint-Denis behaved disgrace upon himself because at breakfast at the Tuileries he carelessly opened his napkin and placed it over his two knees. To this he added the crime of cutting his egg in two at the middle. Court etiquette prescribed that the half-drawn napkin should lie on the left knee and the top of the egg was to be merely broken with the edge of the spoon and drained with the tip of the spoon. For his failings in these respects Saint-Denis's name was stricken off the imperial visiting list.

Where He Drew the Line.

"Anais," said old Billup as he finished his dinner, "I am going to ask you to do me a favor. I want you to give your young man, Mr. Wats-hingham—a message from me."

Anais blushed and looked down at her plate.

"Tell him," the bluff old millionaire went on, "that I don't object to his staying here and running up my gas bills, but that I do object to his carrying the money and the top of the egg with him when he leaves."—Stray Stories.

Ought to Be Goddy.

"The way that he goody make a hit in the 'cigar trade'?"

"As to how?"

"By putting out a cigar with three gorgeous bands on it."

"Estill Park"

Name Given New Fair Grounds.

The Montgomery County Fair Association Has Named Our New Fair Grounds "Estill Park," in Honor of Capt. Jas. Estill, a Noted Indian Fighter and Pioneer.

From Col. Wm. Calk's History of Kentucky we learn that Wm. Calk (grandfather of Price Calk, in company with several others, explored for the first time, a part of what is now Montgomery county, in June, 1775, and built a cabin at his spring, about one mile west of Little Mountain, now called Mt. Sterling, where Price Calk now lives. Later, Wm. Calk gave his deposition in a land suit, wherein the battle of "Little Mountain," or "Estill's Defeat," as it is commonly called, was mentioned at length, in connection with certain boundary lines of the lands in dispute. The case was finally determined by the Kentucky Court of Appeals in 1831, and the opinion of Chief Justice Robertson (5th, J. J. Marshall, page 302) furnishes interesting reading and definitely locates a number of the important points of this famous battle. Surveys, showing the locality, are still in existence and now in possession of Surveyor W. A. DeHaven.

On March 19, 1782, the brave and chivalrous Capt. Estill, with a posse of men, left Estill Station (fifteen miles south of Boonesboro and about four miles southeast of where Richmond now is) in pursuit of a band of Indians. On March 21, 1782, Estill and his men (twenty-five in number) passed Calk's cabin (above referred to) and camped near Little Mountain, now Mt. Sterling. The following day they pressed onward, going down Hinkston Creek until the present site of the Fair Grounds was reached, when Capt. Estill discovered the band of Indians preparing a meal from the body of a buffalo. Capt. Estill opened fire and killed one of the Indians.

David Cook (one of Estill's men) in his arduous, ran some distance in advance of his comrades, and, seeing an Indian halt, raised his gun and fired; just at that instant a second Indian passed in the line of his fire and the one shot proved fatal to both. So remarkable a circumstance, witnessed by nearly all the company, inspired a high degree of enthusiasm and confidence. The Indians then endeavored to retreat, under heavy fire, indisposed to fight, until their Chief fell wounded to the ground. Though bleeding and dying, he sat upright, behind a small bush, ordered his braves to return and fight like true warriors and directed their future movements.

The States in which the division between Democrats and Republicans will be made are Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

Returned From Fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Paxton, their son, Barton, and nephew, Claude Kilpatrick, John Frazer and Robt. Trimble, Jr., of this city; Rev. Fuqua and wife, of Nicholasville; Rev. Bohon and wife, of Georgetown, and Mrs. Louisa Hermon, of Owingsville, have returned from a fishing trip to the Cumberland.

Capt. Estill's warmest friends was shot through the head, which did not kill but crazed him. Not knowing what he was doing, he walked or staggered out into the open space which separated the combatants, when a powerful Indian, whose gun had just been emptied, sprang from behind a tree to tomahawk and scalp him. Estill near by, with gun also empty, though wounded three times could not abandon his friend to his fate, and rushed towards the savage with drawn butcher-knife. The latter, seeing his danger, turned and grappled with Estill in a hand-to-hand, life and death contest.

Each was so powerful and quick, the other could not use his weapon; first up, then down upon the ground, twisting and turning like two immense serpents struggling for the mastery. At last, Estill's broken arm—shattered by an Indian's bullet, four months before, and not yet strong—gave way; and the Indian, with a yell of triumph, plunged his knife into his body, killing him instantly. That instant, he too fell dead across the body of Capt. Estill, pierced by a ball from the unerring rifle of Joseph Proctor, who had been breathlessly watching the contest, afraid to fire lest he should kill his Captain by error. One more death, that of Jonathan McMillan and the battle closed. The voices of both leaders were now still and by a sort of mutual consent, the battle ended. It was really a draw, but as the Indians were left in possession of the field of battle, it has always been known as the battle of "Little Mountain" or "Estill's Defeat." They were about evenly matched in numbers.

A slave, "Monk," by name, who had been captured by the Indians escaped after the battle, reported seventeen Indians killed and two wounded, while Indian tradition has it that but one brave ever returned to his nation alive. Outside of the 7 deserters, seven white men were killed in battle, and eleven returned to Estill's Station, three of whom were badly wounded and had to be carried much of the distance by comrades.

Many of our older citizens have had the details of this desperately fought battle, told to them by their fore-fathers. No legendary tale was ever listened to with more interest or inscribed more vividly on the hearts of the few "Early settlers" who then constituted the hope and strength of our beloved Commonwealth.

"Uncle Tom's" Sale Place Burned.

On Friday morning lightning struck the historic courthouse at Washington, Mason county, Ky., and set fire to and destroyed the building. It was built in 1794 by Louis Craig, a pioneer Baptist preacher. Daniel Webster, T. F. Marshall and Henry Clay and others noted in history, were familiar faces upon its floors and often spoke to the pioneers.

It was here that old "Uncle Tom" of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" fame was sold on the block into slavery and inspired Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous work. For fifty-six years Washington was the county seat of Mason county, and then it was moved to Maysville. The building in later years was used as a school-house.

SUMMER COON

Mr. Editor of the Advocate, it's quite a while since I heard from any of my people, who are out among the living craters of the earth, enjoying themselves to death about getting a little more money. Of course, if a fellow ain't got a right smart of this world religion to leave behind him he croaks, and there is nothing that the newspaper man can do to help him to make a long interesting paper for his paper, then he cuts the thing as short as possible. We all must look out in time while hear and prepare to have a good amount of religion deposited in the banks before we dive down in that 4x6 foot hole in motier earth. That's the only way to get a long and good send off in the newspapers after we start back to dust, from which we came.

I have bin very near the croaking line for the last three months my self. I had come to the conclusion I did not care when and which way the cat jumped. I still stand in that condishun, tho I am improving a little just now. And of cource I am too nere the end of my rode now to expect much more. I am up in to the seventys and is liable to croak at any time. Well as I no I dont no more, I cant put up much of a arguement with a college bread man, therfour I keep a good many people fooled by keeping my mouth closed when a moog them.

If there is a god, he is the one I am looking for to the pretension of my meachery after my work in this life is finished. No summer coon in this world, no matter how many big schools and fine cologes thay bin up aginst, can make me take in all they can say a bout what is or will be done with man after hees bin called out of this world. I hope and beleav there is something better for us in the other world, so if there is a grate savor, I beleav he will save all the world.

Why did he make money the religion of this world? Who can de-nigh it after seeing the base of the workings of the people, when a rich man dies see how quick the laud him in every thing that is good, if he left a big fortune in the world behind him. Watch and see how much good talk is said about the moneyless man when he throws up his job. We all ought to no money is the religion of this earth or we could not run the worlds meachery as it runs. Study and watch the maneuvering of the sun and earth, and your brain will act all rite if your head is clear of wheels. It is too late now for to whip the devil a round the stump.

I have about disposed of every thing I had for sail but my vote, so if any body wants it walk up with a ten dollar William. I have no secrets about my political business. All canadats can give a fellow a squar game of chiz music, but the dollars will side track the whole load all along the line. Say nothing, but keep grinding on the long green.

NEAT SUMMER COON.

Nicholas Committee Called.

Judge A. B. Tilton, chairman of the Nicholas County Democratic Executive Committee, has issued a call for the committee to meet in Carlisle for the purpose of selecting the date for holding the primary to nominate a candidate for County Judge to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Thos. H. Collier. A warm primary is expected. In the last primary Collier defeated N. H. McNew by one vote, and it is thought that this primary will be a close one, with several prominent men in the field.

President Taft issued a statement subsequent to signing the new tariff bill, declaring that, while the measure is not by any means perfect, it is a sincere and honest effort to carry out platform pledges.

Law Unto Yourself.

Never gauge the duration of your sleep by someone else's sleep. Some men will tell you that John Wesley had only so much sleep. Hunter, the great physiologist, so much; and Napoleon so much. But when the Lord made you, as a general thing, He did not make Napoleon. Every man carries within himself a Mount Sinai a revealed law, written for himself separately.—Henry Ward Beecher.

BUY IMMUNITY FOR LARGE SUM.

Pay $10,000 Cash to Uncle Sam to Escape Penalty.

The seizure of about $500,000 worth of whisky from warehouses of the Cascade Distilling Company at Nashville, Tenn., will cost the company $10,000 to obtain the release of the seized spirits and immunity from prosecution for the wealthy distillers. The charges against them were "equalizing spirits on which the tax had not been paid."

GREAT INTEREST TAKEN.

On account of the prominence of the Schwaes, great interest was taken in the case. They rushed to Washington as their attorney, Frank P. Bond, of Nashville, former collector of internal revenue in that district. He has for three months been laboring first to have dismissed the charges against the proprietors and officials of the distilling company and then for the release of seized goods with the payment of a fine which they believed to be equitable.

An offer of $5,000 and the payments of all costs in compromise of the defendant liabilities was made by Mr. Bond. Collector Sharp went to Washington and protested. He said that the infractions of the law by the Cascade Company had been flagrant and he asked that prosecution of the distillers be insisted upon.

WHISKY VALUED AT $1,000,000.

The Cascade seizure was made on April 1, when 50,000 gallons of whisky, valued, if tax paid, at $1,000,000, and the entire plant of the Cascade Distillery Company was taken in charge by Deputy Collectors J. A. Walker and Thomas B. Stapp.

Many newspapers are trying to make it appear that the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot bill is a revision downward. This is absolutely untrue. The average of rates of the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot bill is about 2 per cent higher than the average rate of the Dingley bill. When the maximum goes into effect on March 31, 1910, the average rate will be about 27 per cent higher.

A LAZY LIVER

Is Responsible for Most of the Constipation in the World.

There are many Laxative Pills, but it is doubtful if any are so efficient in compelling a lazy liver to perform its duty as Booth's Laxative Pills.

Their action on the liver and bowels is certain yet gentle and effective.

They promptly cure constipation by toning of the liver, stomach and bowels. They create an appetite and will cause an improvement in the general condition of any run-down person. Booth's Laxative Pills act so gently and easily on the bowels, that they give a joyous surprise to sufferers who have been using ordinary Laxatives.

W. S. Lloyd sells them at 25 cents a box and he knows they are all that is claimed for them.

"I had been a victim of constipation for a long time. Several remedies were used by me without any apparent relief. Seeing Booth's Laxative widely advertised, I procured a treatment. I found this remedy was far ahead of any other that I had used."—Malcolm Gow, 88 Marshall St., Battle Creek, Mich. 4-4 & 6.

MI-ONA Cures Indigestion

It relieves stomach misery, sour stomach, belching, and cures all stomach disease or money back. Large box of tablets 50 cents. Druggists in all towns.

$5,000 Reward

will be paid to any person who can find one atom of opium, chloral, morphine, cocaine, ether or chloroform or their derivatives in any of Dr. Miles' Remedies.

This reward is offered because certain unscrupulous persons make false statements about these remedies. It is understood that this reward applies only to goods purchased in the open market, which have not been tampered with. Dr. Miles' remedies cure by their strengthening and invigorating effect upon the nervous system, and not by weakening the nerves.

"I consider that there are no better remedies put up than Dr. Miles' Nervine, Anti-Pain Pills, and Nerve and Liver Pills. We have used them for years, and recommend them to many others. A lady friend of mine, who was almost a total nervous wreck, though her examination has used several bottles of the Nervine, and now feels well. WM. CROMIE, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails, he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Railroad Owned By Two Men.

In 1896 there was no Canadian Northern railroad; to-day there are 7,000 miles of it in operation, under construction or surveyed. At the present rapid rate of extension it will soon reach from ocean to ocean, making the third transcontinental highway in Canada.

Its shares are not scattered, but are owned and controlled by two men, William Mackenzie and Donald D. Mann.

Mackenzie's early experiences embrace school teaching, operating a sawmill and running a country store. His ability to secure capital to float his enterprises is one chief characteristic.

Makes Them Immune.

R. L. Darnaby, Clintonville, Ky., says: "My hogs were exposed to cholera after they had been cured with Bourbon Hog Cholera Remedy, but it did not effect them in any way." Sold by W. S. Lloyd.

Norway's Wooden Churches.

Some of the wooden churches of Norway are fully 700 years old and are still in an excellent state of preservation. Their timbers have successfully resisted the frosty and almost arctic winters because they have been repeatedly coated with tar.

The Tennessee Supreme Court has decided that the State Railroad Commission was not authorized in its practice of assessing side and yard trackage of railroads as localizable property, and that it was distributive property.

Balloon Passes Over Alps.

The balloon Sirius has succeeded in flying over the Alps. The pilot M. Spelterine had with him three passengers. Fears were entertained for the safety of the voyagers, but they were dispelled by receipt of a report that they had landed safely at an altitude of 5,400 feet.

The Sirius traversed Mount Blanc. The highest altitude attained on the voyage was 18,737 feet.

A successful balloon trip over Mount Blanc and the Alps was made in November of 1906 by two Italian aeronauts. The greatest altitude reached was 20,500 feet, and the rarified atmosphere made it necessary for the men to resort to their supply of oxygen to keep alive. The Milano, which was the name of the machine, covered a distance of 175 miles in three hours.

The record for height in a balloon would appear to belong to two Englishmen, Messrs. Coxwell and Glishier, who in 1862 ascended to a height of 37,000 feet, or about seven miles. In 1875 M. Tissandier, a Frenchman, rose more than five miles into the air. A self-registering balloon sent up with-out a passenger from Paris in 1893 reached an altitude of 52,490 feet.
